LOUISVILLE, KENTUCKY: SUNDAY MORNING, AUGUST 23, 1863.

TERMS OF THE DAILY DEMOCRAT TO THE COUNTRY.

ONE MONTH.

The Republicans gathered themselves together at Indianapolis the other day, and called themselves Democrats. To give plansibility to their proceedings, they invited some men who had been Democrats, but who are not pow acting with the Democratic party at all; who are radical to the last degree; and put them forward as war Democrate; and all the Republicaus assembled to see and hear these new converts, and they were not disappointed. New converts can go beyond the old apostles of any party. They held the powwow, shouted, resolved, and went home satisfied that they had done exploits.

It is marveleus how all these parties aspire to be Democrats. The Louisville Jonrnal's party are Democrats now. Their candidates, it is true, abuse the Democratic party when hard run for breaking up the Union; but on the back of the charge they stultify themselves, by professing, indeed claiming, to be Democrats themselves. These Republi cans now want to be Democrats. Gather in sceres of thousands to shout at a Democratic meeting co-called. They were crafty enough to put a small sessoning in the resolutions to keep up the deception. Here is one of their

5. Resolved, That whenever the people of any of the rebellions States, deluded into secession, lay down their arms, consent to return to the Union, obey the Constitution and the laws of the Federal Government, they should be recognized as citizens and protect ed in their constitutional rights.

That will do pretty well, and would mean something if passed by Democrats. But do these Republicans mean anything by it? Obey "the laws." Well, the confiscation bill Is one of the laws. If men obey that, and are strlpt of all they have, and set all their ucgroes free, they can have their constitutional rightswhen they have nothing to have any right to. As matters stand now, the only rights they have under the law are to ropes enough to hang them, and prisons enough to hold them. It is the question now, or soon will be, how are the States to get back? The process is very simple. Let them come back. Very easily said. Lay down your arms and obey the laws. The mass are not in arms, and how shall it be accertained that they will obey

No matter, this was proclaimed a Demo cratic meeting; and the ominous trait of the whole affir is, that the Republicans are pleased with it, delighted. We have Democracy of the Journal sort here-a party that pleases the Republicans.

The rest of mankind are puzzled to find out what this party is. It has got through au election; but it is the wonder of the whole country. The Administration helped it with bayonets, and yet an organ here says it is an anti-Administration party. Some of the brethren rail at the organ-say it does more harm than good; that it has been an injury to is, some party is to be cheated in this comical party that can't make itself understood. Indoesn't understand itself Its members do not understand each other. Some are Administration and some are not

Among the other sources of revenue of the Confederacy, and, indeed, we might say the main source, was the cotton purchased from the planters and sold to foreign capitallsts. The whole amonut sold is sald to have been five hundred thousand bales. It was stored generally on the plantations, far from any port. McRae, the rebel agent in Europe, assured capitalists of this, and that the capture of no stronghold would endanger the otton supply on hand. Under these circumstances the foreign loan rallied from thirtyfive to twenty-five per cent. discount. When still later news reaches Europe, we may expect another change. The cotton was in Eastern Mississippl, Georgia, Alsbama, Northwestern Louisiana and Texas. Since the fall of Vicksburg and Port Hndson, and the advance of Rosecrans, a great part of this section of country is exposed, and the cotton will be seized. Under this apprehension, the Secretary of the rebel Treasnry, C. G. Memminger, has issued

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, C. S A., RICHMOND, July 15, 1863.

Hon. J. A. Seddon, Secretary of War:
Sir: The fall of Vicksburg and Port Hudson exposes to the enemy the cotton purchased by the Government in Mississippi and chased by the Government in Mississippi and Louisiana. I learn that many of the planters, in whose care this cotton was, will probably leave their plantations, so that there will be no person to whom the duty can be intrusted of preserving the cotton, if it can be preserved, or of destroying it where it is likely to fall into the hauds of the enemy. Under these circumstances, I would respectfully submit that the subject be placed under the control of the commanding generals, and that they of the commanding generals, and that they be instructed to destroy all such cotton as cannot be preserved from the hands of the enemy. With much respect, your obedient

C. G. MEMMINGER, Scc'y of the Treasury. In pursuance of this recommendation, J. D. B. De Bow, general cotton purchasing agent of the rebel government, in a card to the Mobile Advertiser, dated Uniontown, Alabama, July 25, aunounced that he had instructed his agents in Mississippi to apply the torch to ali stores of Confederate cotton "whenever iu imminent and manifest danger of falling into the hands of the enemy, but only lu such cases." He declared it of the "last Importance, however, that cotton should not be trophy of the enemy." Next, our news dispatches from the Southwest informed us that over a wide extent of country in northern Mississippi the air was filled with smoke and the horizou was illuminated at hight by the fire of the rebel cotton burners. Jo. Johnston had been disastrously defeated in and expelled from Jackson, and any further resistance within the limits of the State to the sdvancing "Yankees" was practically abandoned. Ali the railroads being likewise in our possession, there was no alternative remaining but the torch to prevent the depots of Mississippi cotton, marked C. S. A., falling into the hands of the U.S. A. Thus it is probable that since May last there have been burned by the rebels, or carried off or destroyed by the Union forces in Mississippi aione, not less than one hundred thousand of the five hundred thousand bales of cotton set apart for the redemption of this rebel cotton lcan in Enrope.

Considerable quantities of this Confederate cotton have also been captured or destroyed by the forces of Gen. Banks, in Louisiana; and the route pursued by the cavalry expeditions from the army of Gen. Rosecrans, in Norththe party, and must be superseded. The fact ern Alabama and Georgis, have been Illumiuated by some rebel bonfires of the same combustible. But the worst of it is, to the Ergprevent the other four hundred thousand Some of the organs are Administration and bales of (C. S. A.) cotton from being gubbled come of it. The Administration part have the whether in Alaboma, Georgia, Northwestern advantage at present. The whole party has Louisiana, and Texas; for all those States are been folsted into power by bayonets, and it now absolutely at the mercy of the overwhelming armies of Grant, Banks, and Rose-

AN ALLEGED SWINDLE ON THE GOVERNMENT DEFEATED .- A few days since Colonel Goodrich, United States Commissary, advertised for proposals for 1,500 head of cattle, and vesterday the awards were made to certain yesterday the awaros were made to certain leading butchers in this city. After the awards had been made, Colonel Goodrich obtained information that a collasion had been entered into by the bidders aforesaid to swindle the government. It sppears that the bidders who were successful in obtaining the award, had entered into a collasion with another party who proposed to put in his bid for a sum considerably less than theirs, and agreed to take off his hands his 1,500 head of cattle at the price he asked, provided he would not put in any bid and leave the field entnely to them. This "lowest bidder" conented, and the result was, that the award wa given at figures above the regular market price, and by which the successful parties would not a hand-some profit off the govern ment. After the awards had been announced, the lowest bidder was told that "he might keep his cattle and be d—d, they were not buying beef" This so exa-peraced the duped drover that he forthwild repaired to a Migistrate's office, made a statement under oath of all the facts, and presented the same to

Colonel Goodrich for his consideration. Colonel, vesterday evening, set aside the awards and will re-advertise for proposals for

A HABBAS CORPUS FROM THE SUPREME COURT.—The Supreme Court of Pennsylvauia, sitting at Pittsburg, issued a writ of habeas corpus last week upon the Provost Marshal, to produce the body of a drafted man who had been exempted by the Examining Board and a certificate to that effect given him, but who afterwards had been arrested, examined and pronounced fit for duty, the allegation being pronounced fit for duty, the allegation being error in the first examination. On a partial hearing the District Attorney obtained leave to hearing the District Attorney obtained leave to amend the return in order to put in a plea against the inrisdiction of the court, contending that the State Courts had no jurisdiction over questions arising under the new conscription law. On the subsequent hearing that plea was abandoned, and the argument was confined to the point above stated. After a full hearing, Chief Justice Lowrle ordered the discharge of the man, holding that, from all that appeared by the return, the Board had exhansted their power when the certificate of exemption was grauted, and that they had no further coutroi over the prisoner.—[Philadelphis Ledger.

ARREST OF COL. CREAGER-CHARGE OF EN ICING SLAVES TO ESCAPE. - For a week of wo past considerable feeling has prevailed among the farmers in Frederick county, Md. in consequence of some of their slaves having, It is alleged, been culisted lu the military service by Col. J. P. Creager, formerly of Baltimore, who is said to be recruiting for Col. Bir ney's uegro regiment. The circumstances are related in substance as follows:

Among a number of recrults obtained were several slaves, including one owned by Mr. E. Creager, a Union citizen of the county, and a relative of the Colonel. This gave rise to expressions of disapprobation on the part of the Uslon men of the connty, but nothing transpired in opposition to such a course of proceeding until Sunday last. On that day, it is alleged, Colonel Creager visited Frederick city and attended the African church. Aiter service he addressed the colored persons present, and succeeded in inducing several to sublet appropriate a slave of Mr. John eral to enlist, among them a slave of Mr. John Loats. Colonel Creager soon after left the town for his camp at Union Bridge, in Carro county.

During the afternoon Mr. B. Creager obtained a writ for his arrest, and placed it in the hands of the sheriff of Frederick county. In the hands of the sheriff of Frederick county. Exhibition of the Electric Light at Boston.—The exhibition of the magnetic light was a most complete success, and it was witnessed by a crowd equaling lu numbers those generally seen upon the common on the night of the Fourth of July. The light, in different colors, was at one time thrown upon the flag floating ou the flagstaff, with fine effect, while the band played "Red, White and Bine." At another time the, light was thrown upon the fountain, showing upon the water, as if by magic, the names, "Grant and Whiteham?" "Runka and Port Hudeon," thrown upon the fonntain, showing upon the water, as if by magic, the names, "Grant and Vicksburg," "Banks and Port Hudson," "Meade and Gettysburg," "Gilmore and Charleston," and the words, "Honor the Dead." The effect was startling, and the immense crowd that witnessed it gave loud and hearty evidence of their appreciation. We understand that from the bills in the v.cinity of Boston the display was very fine. At a distance of seven miles large print might have been distinguished and read.—[Commercial Advertiser.

[Special to the Herald.]

WASHINGTON, August 21. Information is current here that Lee's arr. 37 has been moving off from our front, upon the Circums Central relirond, to Richmond.
Officers arriving here to-night, whose posiometria arriving acre to-night, whose positions in the army entitle them to know what is going ou, assert no such intelligence is in consession of our commending Generals. Lee is undoubtedly upon the Rapidan and Rappahannock. His pickets extend from the apper Rappahannock along the river to Freduckshows and the region, shout Patomac icksburg, and the region about l'otomaceek is infested with rebel cavalry. Everything indicates that the enemy intends to remain in his present locality, unless our wn movements should necessitate a change of base, and it is not impossible that the next battle may be fought upon that river. Indeed, it is apprehended that Lee will assume the offensive, rather than retreat, and many expect an attack from him every day. Preparations for such an emergency are now being made.

The Herald has the following: which leads me to believe that the rebels have left our front and gone to Richmond, De-seriers who come across the Rappahannock say the movement of troops towards Freder eksburg from Culpepper was only a ruse to over Lee's real object, and to enable him to avelry dashed down towards the Rappahan-cock at separate fords, driving lu our pickets and deployed in fine line of battle order. Immediately the corps along the river were put under arms. In such position they remained until morning, when the rebels with-drew. A cavalry reconnoissance was then made, which went as far as Culpepper, but found no enemy; on the contrary, obtained such information as leads to the belief that the whole rebel force has gone in the direction of Gordensville. The reason for my belief I am not at liberty to give.

Richmoud papers of the 18th, brought into our lines, speak most despondingly of affirs, but particularly deplore the prospect now in view that Charleston must fall. A complete panic prevails in Richmond to obtain green-

NUMBER 33.

The London Times publishes the following extract of a letter from Dr. Livingstone, dated River Shire, February 20, 1963, giving the latest news of his expedition:

Of late affilirs have taken an entirely new phase, or rather we have had our eyes opened to see that the old system, which has kept this region shut up from all good influence, is still in operation, and quite capable of render-ing all our labor of no avail. The slave huntsing all our labor of no avail The slave-hunting system has come across our path, and has nearly quile depopulated the valley of the Lower Soire. You may have heard that certain slave dealers came across Dr. Krk's path, from Tette to this river—instigated one triba against another, and were paid in captives, some of whom we liberated. The captives who escaped us are separated at Tette, the men retained, and the women and children sent up the Zimbesi to bny ivory. A paric seized the population of a large district above the Cataracts. They field to the Shire, leaving their fine gardens and grain behind them—a dronght and famine followed—thousands perished, and still die off daily.

We counted thirty-two dead bodies floating down as we steamed up, and these are nothing to those who perish in the villages and down as we steamed up, and these are nothing to those who perish in the villages and he unburied, or those that pass by at night or are devoured by alligators. Well, further down the river, in the country around Mount Charendon, a h.lf-caste marander, called Marisano, has devastated and depopulated with, it is said, about a thousand armed slaver; and is said, about a thousand armed slaver; and where last year we could purchase any amount of fresh provisions and cotton at the cheapest rate—Captain Wilson, of H. M. S. Gorgon, thought that a hundred tuns of cotton could be collected from that valley and the mills adjacent—we saw not a single village, only here and there a few miserable wretches striving to keep soul and body tegether by fishing and collecting seeds of grasses. Our labor is very much increased by this depopulation, luasmuch as we must go at least three hundred miles for all the food our native laborers realize.

Another man, called Belshere, made slave Another man, called Belshere, made thave forays west of the Shire; and so does another named Mello; and another; called Jose St. Anna, higher up the Zumbesi, and several parties of slave hunters are out south of Serua—any one with a 'ew guns and slaves may do the same. No notice is taken of it by the authorities till the culprit is rich enough to stand a squeeze. He may then be imprisoned. It would be uncharitable to say that there is any muleting, but he is released and at liberty, a squeeze. He may then be imprisoned. It would be uncharitable to say that there is any mulcting, but he is released and at liberty, after a short confinement, to begin again. This Marianno was sertenced to three years' imprisonment for rebellion and at least forty murders, came back and was received as a guest of the Governor of Quillimane till he "rau away," and his excellency ran after him, but, of course, conid not catch him. This system has been going on for a long time, but we did not become aware of it by actual observation till lately, because the siaving which went on under the name of "Frenca Free Emigration" was supplied by forays in the conntries north and northwest of Quillimane.

You are probably not fully aware of what Lord Palmerston has done by his policy on the West Coast. Were he not in power, I could say a great deal more than, for fear of being set down as a "toady," I dare do now. Mr. Wilson, an American missionary, who has written the best book I have even on the West Coast, says that, had it not been for his poli-Coast, says that, had it not been for his poli-cy, Africa as yet had scarcely been accessible to missionary labor. By means of the scorrito missionary labor. By means of the security which our squadron imported, ever twenty unsalons have been established, twenty dialects reduced to writing, and twelve thousand communications have been received by the different churches. Education is impured to thousands of the young, and good influences are spreading inland. Lawful commerce has been increased from £2,000 annually to between £2,000 of an and more unage is employed in carrying it than ever was engaged in the salve trade even in its palmiest days.

The Exquirer mounts the Jew speculators roughly and classed Mr. Benjamin the King thief of with the Freuch, which was by no means apwith the Freuch, which was by no means approved of by the Protestant missionaries. The adherents to the old idol supers itions of the land were equally opposed to both these concessions, and the new king, weak and vacilating through luxnry and the grossest intemperance and excesses, at first promised everything to everybody, much after the fa-hion of Charles II, and, like him, could be depended by noon nobody.

He remained investigation of the models and ministers soon collected an army, and then demanded of the King the Menamaso, or redeyed men, his police advisers. Some of them were caught and executed, others field, and about twelve remained with the King. At that the King refused to surrender hem, but and about twelve remained with the king. At first the King refused to surrender hem, but they were finally given up to be put in fetters for life. They were, however, privately assured by the King that when he got atrong enough he would release them, and afterwards he declared that he would severely punish the opposers of his will. The nobles, therefore, resolved that it was not safe for him to live. The next day two efficers and several soldiers resolved that it was not safe for him to live. The next day two officers and several soldiers entered the palace, one tripped up the King, and the rest fell on him and strangled him, as they had done his Menamaso, or red-cyed

This beautiful being was no other than the Lady of Bagatelle, who had so long excited the curiosity of the Parisians-her ravishing face being concealed by a frightful and ingeniously fashioned nask. Her object in veiling those charming features from the gaze of the world was to secure a partner who would not seek to marry her on account of the accidental advantages of wealth and beauty alone, but for her intrinsic worth; and in the accomplished Camille d'Arcy she obtained such a partner.

nm. Now, I don't want such a reputation, and I won't have it.' The topers were taken all aback, for Noggin's haunt had been the easiest they had ever known; more free drinks and less insults and forbidding frowns had been obtainable there than at any other loafing saloon in the city. So in the desperate erisis they made a bold stand in self-defence, and prevailed on him to listen to their several pleas, offered in various styles of bolduess, timidity or persuasion.

Noggin leaned his meditative face upon his hands and his elbows on the bar, as one after another the pale, yellow, swarthy, red, scarred, uushaven and torn put in their easons for exemption from his sweeping bau; why they "did thus and so," and the benefit springing from their course.

"Why look here, boss," exclaimed a short miserable whom they called "The Jug." because he was paunchy and had a habit of placing one arm akimbo, like the handle of a jng, and did also gurgle when he drauk, with a "choog, choog!"

"I'm looking at you, Jug." "I don't come in here for nothin', mor'n prevent suicide. Noggin nodded, as if he would take the argument in thought; and l'ete Swillkins opened his channel, with a moral effort: Fact is, I come in here to keep out of. nischief. Can't fiend no busiuess, you see, and if I don't keep good company, like I find here, I should be liable to do something wrong, and he ketched at it, and sent over. When I do get work, Nog, I promise to spend half my evenings in your shop. Honor." "Never turn your back on your friends Noggin, when they are down," exhorted John Gonefoot. "It's a principle my father reared me up to, and he died eighty years old, never for me to turn my back on a frieud when he was down, lest I might be afeared to turn my face to him when he was up! I dodge in here every day, and spend four or five hours, or more; because it's a good place to hear the news that's goingeoal-black beard, stroked it augrily, and wanted to know how many times he hadn't been of service to Noggin's customers when they had drank so much that they couldn't get home without help, and were in danger of being robbed on the way or put in the He didn't want to brag, but he lock up thought he had always been on hand for such cases, and Noggin might be thankful The forcible hint of services rendered in return for chair-room and drinking-chances, seemed to inspire one who had hitherto remained mute and hopeless in a corner. With excited eyes and outstretched hand, and a voice plaintive in view of the salvation that it plead for, he exclaimed:

"Mr. Noggin, just hear me! I only want to ask you a fair question. You know I always liked you. There seemed to be no dispute as to this last declaration in the minds of any present and the morose ruffian and the fellow with the black beard looked daggers at the speaker, who said no more, but leaned ealmly on the bar, as it reposing on his laurels, with the utninst confidence.

A stont gentleman, with mashed hat and elbows out, and of evidently less compre hensive ideas, here ventured the remark that it drink made him cross and solemn, as it did some, he should not haunt a place where it was to be had, and had good.

"But you know, Noggin," continued he that you keep good liquor; and what i nore, that it makes me feel happy, so that when I go home to my wife and children I am very agreeable to them, and this encourages my wife, who, poor soul! is a hardorking woman, and does need some little comfort in hard times like these, when washing is searce, because folks wear their shirts so long.'

Here the hard-looking crowd eyed him intently, to see if he intended anything like an insult, for several of them had no shirts, while the others looked innocent of a lanudry-bill for the past month at least.

"You are all a very serviceable of patriarchal dissipation localing through don't kill a man, if he follers it up well, and don't let his skin get out of sonk.

The Recognition of the Confederate States. [From the Richmond Enquirer, Aug. 1.] If there be any one among us who may peradventure, have still cluug to the idea that some friendship exists for us in England, we trust he is undeceived. But there are yet some who imagine that France is probably about to recognize us by herself. This, also, we gravely doubt. France, cer tainly, is more triendly to us than England; hear what's up in the way of business, and has much less interest than England in the breaking down of American commerce, and no interest at all in the overthrow of American democracy, seeing that she is quite as democratic herself. It is true, also, that by temperament and by the traditions of their race, the French are much more likely to feel a generous and disinterested sympa thy with a brave people struggling for its merston is right in saying that the Empero has his own impediments which have hithllaw, haw!" laughed a stentorian soak- erto kept him back from all action in our er at his side, looking down on the frugilc specter with a sort of jocose commissern-formidable "Liberal" or "Republican" party brawny frame, which it seemed as if no which avails itself of every pretext for amount of whisky could ever tire.
